OUTLINES.

The ter-centennial exposition at Jamestown, Va., was formally inaugurated there yesterday to commemorate the first permanent settlement of English people in America; an immense throng attended, and President Roosevelt, who was the guest of honor, was acclaimed by thousands and given deafening salutes by the assembled warships of the United States and many foreign nations; the feature of the day was an address by President Roosevelt and the only untoward incident was a threatened panic owing to the crush of the immense crowd around the grand stand when President Roosevelt began to speak; troops had to be called on to hold the crowd in check to prevent injury to women and children.——Percy Jones, the bucket shop man, charged with conspiracy with F. H. Jones in embezzling $68,000 from the Charlotte (N. C.) National bank, was arrested yesterday at Luverne, Ala.——The gasoline yacht J. Daggett was burned in Albemarle Sound, N. C., Thursday night as the result of an explosion, the crew escaping in a small boat.——Three men attempted to wreck a Southern Railway train last night, and men supposed to be the villains were chased by bloodhounds and captured.——Speculators on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday looked for something encouraging in President Roosevelt's speech at the Jamestown Exposition but it was evident that they were disappointed and the market fell flat.——Bradstreet's review of trade for the week reports conditions as satisfactory, though the bad crop news because of the cold April had some effect; the cotton and steel industries continue to show marvelous activity.——New York markets: Money on call, 2 to 2 1-4 per cent., ruling rate 2, closing bid and offered at 2; spot cotton, steady, 11.30; flour, firm and higher but dull; wheat, firmer, No. 2 red, 87 1-2 elevator; corn, firm, No. 2, 60 elevator; oats, firmer, mixed, 47 1-2; turpentine and rosin, firm.

It is presumed that Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson acted as the game cock of the peace congress.

In the eyes of the outs the ring is the crowd which forms a long and continuous circle around the offices so nobody else can get one.

The report that the Czar of Russia is going to abdicate reminds men that if they were in the Czar's ticklish position, they would either abdicate or do something worse.

If Roosevelt wants to select his successor and his successor wants to select his successor, and his successor wants to select his successor, etc., and also, etc., in that event there would be little difference from the "succession to the throne."

Says an ancient proverb: "We should choose a wife with our ears rather than with our eyes." The eyes are liable to pick out beauties, but the ears make more of a business proposition of it. Beauty is not everything now any more than it was with the ancients.

Wall Street has to answer for many a sin, whether it is guilty or not, and perhaps it is. The Street is now blamed by William O. Douglass, assistant loan clerk of the Trust Company of America, New York, who is in jail charged with stealing $250,000 in securities from the bank. Stealing these days is on a big scale.

Miss Lottie Tallerday, "a pretty, talented and accomplished Indiana girl," has become a member of a law firm at Butte, Mont. Her partners may know what they are doing by letting her into the firm, but if their briefs turn up in court with a postscript and arranged so the judge can't tell one page from another, it will be their own fault.

The Washington Post puts in: "In several large cities there is a movement on foot to forbid cooks and waters to wear mustaches. But even that may not prevent the cook's Marcel wave from occasionally getting into the soup and the butter." Marcel wave nothing—down South. Here we have to look out for the spiral hirsute.

Says the Norfolk Landmark: "It is said that President Roosevelt would like to see Mr. Overman, of North Carolina, made the Democratic leader in the Senate. Senator Overman is a good man, but since when has it been the custom to choose Democratic leaders to please a Republican President?" Here's where we would fall down if we didn't admist for once that Roosevelt has a good eye.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., April 26.—Dr. Tait Butler, State Veterinarian, is devoting special attention just at this time to the preparation of a programme or rather the itinerary for a series of farmers' institutes that will be held under the direction of the State Department of Agriculture during the Summer, commencing about July 18th and continuing until August 24th, two and three days at each place. Every county in the State except fifteen will be visited by one of the three institute parties. Among those that will not have institutes at this time will be Onslow, Craven, Hyde and a number extending along the northeastern coast of the State. At these institutes the use of improved machinery and the application of advanced methods of farming and care of stock will be urged and special effort will be made at the same time to arouse interest in the general State convention of farmers that will be held at the A. and M. College here August 28, 29th and 30th.

The Peace Institute commencement will be held May 19th to 21st and the baccalaureate sermon will be by Rev. J. L. Watson, formerly of this city but now of South Carolina. There are seven members of the graduating class. This session will terminate the connection of Dr. James Dinwiddie with the college, his purpose being to sell his interest in the school and retire from active life because of failing health and advanced age.

ON THE GUN CLUB TRAPS

Regular Weekly Shoot Yesterday Afternoon Well Attended—Tie For High Average—Contest For Peters' Trophy Next Week.

The weekly turn at the traps by members of the Wilmington Gun Club yesterday afternoon was much enjoyed by a goodly number of participants and not a few spectators who gathered to witness the sport. The weather was ideal and some very good scores were made. Stokley and G. W. Penny led the shooting, each breaking 86 targets out of a possible 100. This was not fully up to the high average of previous shoots but it was very good. Dr. Harllee Bellamy, who with Mr. Stokley will represent the Wilmington Club at the Interstate tournament in Richmond early in May, made 40 out of a possible 50. This was more than equaled by H. E. Truelove, whose run was 42 out of 50. The scores in detail were as follows:

	Targets.	Broke.
R. G. Stokley	100	86
S. W. Sanders	75	42
J. H. Dreher	100	68
E. Boushee	100	71
G. W. Penny	100	86
Western	75	45
J. W. H. Fuchs	50	15
H. E. Truelove	50	42
Dick	25	18
Visitor	25	11
Reddy	50	17
Dr. Russell	25	19
R. H. Bellamy	50	40
J. G. Littig	100	71

Next Friday will begin the shooting for the Peters' trophy, mention of which was made last week. This is a very handsome silver cup, which will be on display in a few days at some convenient point down town.

88TH ANNIVERSARY

Annual Observance By Wilmington Odd Fellows Last Night A Great Success.

ADDRESS BY MR. MONTAGUE

Distinguished Virginia Lawyer Made Fine Oration—Splendid Music and Other Features at Opera House—Decorations.

The eighty-eighth anniversary of the founding of Odd Fellowship in America was most appropriately and auspiciously celebrated by the four Wilmington lodges in the Academy of Music last night. The exercises were well attended both by ladies and gentlemen, and the affair reflected great credit in its entirety upon the committee which had the arrangements in hand. The address by Hon. Hill Montague, of Richmond, Va., a National Representative of the order, was pleasing and inspiring, and the programme of music and other features could not have been improved upon in a city of twice the size of Wilmington. The stage decorations were from the floral gardens of Miss Fannie Johnson and were extremely pretty. Paints and flowers were banked along the footlights, and at advantageous positions elsewhere, making a perfect bower of beauty. The presiding officers, those who contributed to the musical programme and prominent Odd Fellows in the city and the State had places on the platform, and the auditorium was well filled with among the leading people of Wilmington.

The exercises opened with the rendition of "Ye That Stand" (Walter Spinney), by a double mixed quartette, consisting of Mrs. J. D. Edwards, soprano; Miss Nelle King, soprano; Mrs. F. A. Muse, alto; Mrs. Greene Fenley, alto; Mr. Greene Fenley, tenor; Mr. W. L. Williford, tenor; Mr. A. S. Holden, basso, and Mr. W. B. Muse, basso. This selection was exceptionally well rendered, and was an exceedingly bright augury of the programme of other music that was to follow during the evening.

Rev. Kenneth D. Holmes, pastor of Fifth Street M. E. Church, the chaplain of the exercises, offered prayer, and another most pleasing selection was "Welcome Pretty Primrose" (Pinsuti Benbow), by a female quartette of the lady members of the double mixed quartette named above. The secretary, Mr. E. N. Penny, read the proclamation from the Sovereign Grand Lodge calling upon all subordinate lodges to appropriately celebrate the anniversary and extending a greeting to the fraternity in America. Then a mixed quartette sweetly sang "Oh, Not My Own, These Verdant Hills," by Herman Gotze, this quartette being composed of Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Muse, Mr. Fenley and Mr. Muse. The anniversary ceremony, accordng to the beautiful I. O. O. F. ritual followed and the Acme Male Quartette consisting of Messrs. Dosher, Dosher, McGirt and Muse, delightfully rendered "The Bridge," by Lindsay.

The orator of the evening, Hon. Hill Montague, of Virginia, was introduced by the Rev. A. D. McClure, D. D., pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, who payed high tribute to the man and the great State from which he came.

Mr. Montague is one of the younger members of the order, but has attained prominence in the councils of the organization, and has a fine stage presence and speaks with ease and eloquence. His address was a departure from the usual anniversary address in that it was not historical, but rather dealt with the beautiful principles which inspire Odd Fellowship everywhere. Its influence upon home life, upon the National life and upon the individual was strikingly brought out, and closing with beautiful optimistic view of the trend of events, his oration was pleasing and uplifting. He was given the closest attention and the most enthusiastic applause both during and after his splendid address.

"Dost Remember," by Campana, was excellently rendered as a vocal duet by Mrs. Edwards and Mr. Holden, followed by what proved to be one of the most pleasant features of the entre evening—a reading by Mrs. Curtis Arnold-North. Mrs. North first gave an amusing little sketch by Jerome K. Jerome, wherein two German students, a company of would-be cultured young people, and a German professor figured to the delight of everyone, who was so fortunate as to hear the talented elocutionist. Mrs. North was obliged to respond twice to encores, which were equally as well received as was the first appearance.

"The Gallant Troubadour," by the double mixed quartette proved quite pleasing as the closing number on the musical programme, after which the Rev. Mr. Holmes pronounced the benediction upon what quite everyone pronounced the most successful anniversary observance ever held in Wilmington.

The accompanments for the music were played by Mr. Alf H. Yopp, who is always at his best. Mr. J. W. Flett, for the joint committee on arrangements, had charge of the music and the triumph in this respect was a compliment to his appreciation of the best in the city and his ability to enlist the talent for an occasion of he kind.

The meeting was presided over by Past Grand Master Marcus W. Jacobi, chairman of the committee and host of the sepeaker of the evening. Mr. Jacobi makes a splendid presiding officer, and the programme was gone through with perfectly. The officers of the occasion were as follows: Past Grand Master, Richard J. Jones; Noble Grand, J. J. Hopkins; Right Supporter to Noble Grand, D. Wilborn Davis; Left Supporter to Noble Grand, J. L. Middleton; Vice Grand, H. O. Craig; Right Supporter to Vice Grand, A. T. Parker; Left upporter to Vice Grand, James Orrell; Secretary, E. N. Penny; Treasurer, William Goodman; Warden, L. E. Buston; Conductor, H. L. Walker; Outer Guard, C. D. Morrill; Inner Guard, E. S. Hancock; R. S. S., W. H. Schaefer; L. S. S., Samuel G Hall; Chaplain, Rev. K. D. Holmes; Marshal, Col. Walker Taylor.

The committee of arrangements was composed of Messrs. M. W. Jacobi, charman; R. H. Northrop, secretary; W. H. Yopp, H. O. Craig, E. Y. Davis, W. G. T. Keen, R. W. Shepard, J. E. Jordan, John E. Wood, W. J. Bradshaw, J. B. Buston, and A. J. Hewlett.

THEATRICALS AT AIRLIE

Nearly Four Hundred People Witnessed Production Last Night at Jones' Country Estate on Wrightsville Sound—Cast.

Nearly four hundred Wilmington people were last night the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones at Airlie, their handsome country estate on Wrightsville Sound, the occasion having been the presentation of "My Western Rose," a delightful comedy drama in four acts, for the benefit of the Wrightsville Chapel fund. The guests for the play went down to the Sound on six of the large suburban cars of the Consolidated Company under special charter, the visitors to Airlie having been provided with conveyances from the railway station over the magnificent roadway leading to the estate by the host and hostess of the evening. The cars left the city at 7 o'clock yesterday evening, returning early this morning, members of the cast and patrons of the play having been entertained quite elaborately by Mr. and Mrs. Jones after the theatrical production.

The play was staged and directed by Mr. James H. Cowan, of this city, while dtails of the business arrangements fell to Mr. Thomas H. Wright, also of Wilmington. The large tennis court at Airlie was enclosed and beautified as an improvised theatre, Mrs. William A. Dick, Mrs. Wallace Carmichael and Miss Hanna Patteson Bolles having had charge of the decorations. Handsomely printed programmes announced the cast of characters and acts as follows:

As They First Appear.

Dandy Dick.....Mr. Robertson
Bulger Bill.....Mr. Cowan
Dashing Dave.....Mr. Wright
Arthur Windham.....Mr. McClintock
Sister Agnes.....Miss Emerson

Frederick Rayman.....Mr. Williams
Margaret Nelson.....Miss DeRosset
Col. Windham.....Mr. Empie

Act I—Living Room in Ranch Home near Wounded Knee, Silver Creek, U. S. A.
(Twelve months elapse between acts 1 and 2.)
Act II—Afternoon, Terrace, Wyndham Castle, England.
Act III—Brinthrope Abbey, Evening same as act II.
Act IV—Same as act first.

It is pleasing to know that more than four hundred tickets were sold for the production by the novel means adopted for their distribution and that a large sum of money was realized for the worthy object for which the play was given.

Messrs. James D. and George W. Mote, of the Academy of Music stage crew in Wilmington, were in charge of the scene shifting for the production, and the handling of the elaborate settings was without a hitch. In fact, the entire action of the play is spoken of as well nigh professional.

The Fire Yesterday Evening.

The alarm of fire at 7:05 o'clock yesterday evening from box 45 was on account of a slight blaze at 514 South Second street, owned and occupied by Mr. W. J. Reaves. The fire caught from a spark from the chimney and the damage was very slight. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

BERRIES ARE GOING

Chadbourn Section of Trucking Belt Now A Veritable Bee Hive of Industry.

TRAVELERS TO MEET THERE

Annual Meeting and Banquet of Association Tonight—Truckers' Journal Estimate of Damage By Recent Cold Snap.

The balmy Spring weather of the past two days has brought the luscious strawberry to the fore and good shipments are going forward daily from the Chadbourn section. On account of the lateness of the season and the large number of traveling men in that immediate vicinity just at this time, it has been deemed expedient to hold the annual meeting of the American Fruit and Produce Travelers' Association at Chadbourn this year and that delightful event will take place at the hotel there tonight. The annual meeting will be followed by an elaborate banquet for which covers will be laid for between 75 and 100. A number of toasts will be informally responded to and a most pleasant occasion is anticipated with delight by the jolly good fellows who are down this way every year to solicit consignments for their houses which are the leading ones in the country "from Maine to Mexico."

The strawberry season promises not to be so bad after all and there are estimates now of at least three-fourths of a crop all told. The Carolina Truckers' Journal, of this city, which keeps remarkably close tab on the situation, in its issue of this morning will say:

"As far South as Florida beans, cantaloupes, melons, peas and other things were killed outright, while similar damage is reported from Georgia, where the great peach crop was cut 66 per cent. At Charleston Irish potatoes were generally cut down, beans, cucumbers and other vegetables were almost totally killed. Strawberry blooms went the way of all the unrighteousness, with peaches and other fruits sharing about the same fate. Replanting is the order of the day in that territory, however, and many of the growers are strenuously endeavoring to make good in every way possible.

"Throughout North Carolina the damage was very considerable, both to strawberries and other fruits as well as vegetables. Beans, peas, tomatoes, cantaloupes, and in fact practically everything in the vegetable line were leveled with the ground, it being the exception more than the rule when not killed, except where covered or otherwise protected. Strawberries sustained a loss of fully 25 to 35 per cent. and the crop was set back at least ten days by this one cold snap and freeze. The blooms were killed and the grown and ripe berries were frozen on the vines and rotted in many cases. The damage to strawberries was at first thought to have been something like 50 per cent., but a later examination shows that possibly 25 and certainly 33 1-3 per cent. will cover the loss. Shipments have already begun in good shape, ten carloads in refrigerators having passed Rocky Mount yesterday, besides something like two carloads by express.

"Around Newbern, Oriental and Elizabeth City the damage to vegetable crops will run heavy; many were killed outright, but replanting has been promptly resorted to by the growers in many cases, and it is hard to forecast just now the extent of the shortage along this line. It is safe to say that not more than half a crop will be grown and gathered all over the eastern part of the State, if even that much. In many cases it is so late now that cotton and peanuts will be substituted for vegetables, although in the strictly speaking vegetable districts there will be considerable attention yet given these crops, as replanting will be resorted to in many cases.

"Around Norfolk the damage has not been altogether so heavy as one might have imagined, although it is estimated that strawberries have been cut fully one-third there, with a corresponding damage to all vegetable crops. In that section, however, vegetation was not quite so far advanced as in this territory and tributary to the coastal regions of this State; consequently the berry and vegetable crops up that way should be able to make a little better showing in the way of results than will be made in this territory. That district at best however does not ship over four to five hundred carloads of berries each season, while this section ships from 2,000 to 2,500. Our prediction is now that with favorable weather this territory will ship at least 1,500 carloads of strawberries this season. This means a shortage of something like one-third the average crop. A portion of the one-third loss will doubtless be made up in quality which will in part compensate the growers and shippers for the loss otherwise sustained."

—Dr. Delia Dixon-Carroll and Mrs. F. L. Stevens, of Raleigh, who were among the most prominent delegates in attendance upon the State Federation convention here, returned to their homes yesterday morning.

"KER FLOP—KER FLUMP."

The above is the subject for an editorial in the Norfolk-Virginian Pilot, and that esteemed contemporary makes this righteous outcry:

"In all the vicissitudinous and chameleonic career of that Washington gentleman, who is now so much in the public eye, nothing has so forcibly demonstrated his versatility as the recent somersault he described from the lofty pinnacle of Civil Service reform to the squat stool of the Spoils System. From the day when as a callow youth Teddy began to scribble pious platitudes for the edification of admiring Aunties; through the period when as a Commissioner in New York he waged war upon the patronage abomination with all the zeal of a St. George attacking some pestilential dragon; through the era of authorship in which, while belittling all our past Presidents, he set forth the lofty precepts and principles of conduct by which one future ruler of the United States would be governed, down to and including the messages which looked Amens from all the piosities in the country during four years of his reign at the White House,—all this time, we say, through the rivers of ink he shed upon every variety of subjects human and divine, it was toorulloorally edifying to note how 'one unchanging purpose ran' through volume after volume and document after document, until to a world, half admiring, half complaining, Roosevelt stood forth as the one man who never, never, never would dispense office for political advantage or remove an incumbent because of non-subservience to party calls.

"And, now, what a fall is here, my Countryman! The Rghteous Roosevelt turned to common clay; breaking his golden precept every day. The authoritative announcement comes from Washington that the President will use all the patronage at his disposal to strengthen the hands of Governor Hughes in New York. Simultaneously an official is dispatched South from Washington to warn the papsuckers in that section that a basket waits the heads of all who dare to countenance the aspirations of the F. F. V.'s, that is the Fairbanks, Foraker villians. Verily, Lucifer, the morning star, has plunged into the abysmal depths of the political sheol. It was by ambition Angels fell! From head reformer to chief office-broker, —what next?."

This reminds us that the Brooklyn Citizen a few days ago called attenton to the fact that the followers of Senaors Foraker and Dick in Ohio are almost as much shocked by the latest move of President Roosevelt against them, as ex-Congressman Wadsworth of New York State was by the giving of the Internal Revenue Collectorship at Rochester to one of his opponents. The President having made up his mind to give the Toledo (O.) Collectorship to a supporter of Taft, the two Ohio Senators and their valiant associates raise their voices in a chorus of denunciation. All at once, they have become enamored of th merit system of appointments, and call the whole country to witness that what the White House is now doing grossly opposed to it. The President has, they say, turned his back upon all his protestations of devotion to the great cause of civil service reform, and is now acting after the manner of the most shameless spoilsmen.

The politicians are for the spoils system till it is turned against them, as Roosevelt has no compunctions of conscience about doing.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT FORGOT.

The Star may have overlooked it, but if we mistake not President Roosevelt entirely neglected to send his distinguished endorsement to the recent meeting of the Publicity League which met in New York to further that much-desired and needed reform in political campaigns. The President sent his blessings to the Peace Congress in New York but evidently forgot the publicity movement. It should have had his endorsement.

The country may as well understand that publicity of campaign expenditures is coming sooner or later, but we must say that we are committed to the idea that there is evident absurdity in publicity for the expenditures of political candidates while there is no law limiting the amount they may expend to secure or buy a nomination or an election. In some States there are laws limiting the expenditures of candidates, but no laws requiring publicity for the manner in which enpenditures are made. In other States there are laws requiring more or less publicity while there are no laws limiting the amount candidates may expend. The whole purpose of such laws is to prohibit the buying of nominations and elections, and to prevent corruption in elections, to hedge about the ballot box from debauchery, and unless the laws both limit expenditures and require publicity for the way in which the expenditures are made, no good can be accomplished.

Publicity laws seem to meet with little favor in Legislatures. For instance, such a bill is now tied up in the General Assembly of New York. Mr. Wainwright, of Winchester county, introduced a bill which requires full publicity as to all cmapaign expenditures over $2, and also extends the publicity principle so as to require accounting of expenditures of candidates in primary elections as well as in general elections. The bill is sleeping in the Assembly Code's Committee to which it was referred some time ago.

SOLVES THE WATER PROBLEM.

In eastern North Carolina, "the low country," and the tidewater region, the question of good water has been a serious problem. To get good water and avoid malaria has long been the prerequisite in a large area of the finest section of North Carolina. Many sections have practically been uninhabitable because of lack of a healthful water supply, but artesian wells solve the problem.

Throughout eastern North Carolina there are now thousands of artesian wells, many of them gushers. In Wilmington numbers of artesian wells have supplemented cisterns to give us pure water, and through the country in New Hanover and surrounding counties there are hundreds of artesian wells providing water of the purest quality in great abundance. Not many miles from Wilmington one farmer has a well which flows water to a height sufficient to run water into his house and barnyard and by means of pipes running from his well he can irrigate his truck farm.

Several wells have recently been driven in Kinston, and the results are highly satisfactory. This week in that growing young eastern North Carolina city a well driven on the court house square produced an overflow of 12 to 15 gallons of pure, cool water a minute. This overflow was reached at a depth of 225 feet by Mr. H. H. Carr, who is boring wells throughout the country. It is stated that Kinston's court house well produces a supply of fine water ample for all purposes.

Artesian wells will make eastern North Carolina.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

"What a fortunate provision of nature is that deprives the rose of knowing suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co. Detroit, Mich.

Coca-Cola

SUBJECTED to a RIGID ANALYSIS

CHEMICAL DEPARTMENT

South Carolina College

COLUMBIA, S. C., January 17, 1906.

Columbia Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Columbia, S. C.

GENTLEMEN—This is to certify that I have bought, in the open market, an original package of five gallons of Coca-Cola Syrup, bearing the label of "The Coca-Cola Co., Atlanta, Ga.," and have subjected the same to careful analysis.

The object of this investigation being to establish the presence or absence of cocaine, and possibly of other injurious alkaloids, I operated on quantities of three to five times the amount contained in a bottle of the carbonated beverage. The extractions of the syrup were repeated until the alkaloids were entirely removed, and the crystalline substance thus obtained was further separated by fractional extractions, after which it was concentrated and tested. Since this concentrated product failed to respond to the tests for cocaine, it is clear that the alkaloid is absent, or, if present at all, then in quantities too minute to allow of detection. The active constituent of Coca-Cola Syrup proved to be caffeine, and in quantities seemingly less than in a cup of good coffee or tea.

There was no evidence of the presence of other alkaloids.

Yours truly, (Signed) W. B. BURNEY, Chemist.

A DIPLOMATIC POINTER.

[Original.]

When Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Compton appeared in Washington, there was some difficulty in making them out. It was generally conceded that Mrs. Compton was of a superior grade to her husband—that is, she had the mannerisms of society, which her husband had not. Mr. Compton laughed rather loud, while Mrs. Compton laughed very softly, though an expert in caste would have detected that it was rather artificial than natural.

The minister from Aurania—there is no such country as Aurania; the name is used to stand for a kingdom which it would not do to mention openly—became devoted to Mrs. Compton. Either this or Mrs. Compton became devoted to the ambassador. We must have a name for the minister, so we will call him the Marquis of Caribas. He was regarded as one of the brightest of the diplomatic corps and withal the most reticent. He had a way of furnishing items to reporters without giving them information which, though it did not satisfy, never antagonized them.

"Marquis," said Mrs. Compton one evening when with the ambassador, "there is a rumor that the war between your people and the Wisterians"—another fictitious name—"is about to cease. I hear the United States will intervene."

"All depends upon the emperor of Wisteria."

"Indeed! What do you Auranians expect him to do?"

"We expect him to do nothing."

"That implies that he is bent on doing something."

"If so it is the first time he has ever done anything. He is the laziest sovereign on the face of the earth."

"I thought possibly that you would trust me just a little since we have become such good friends," said the lady, with a hurt expression. "I don't see how you diplomats ever marry; you must always have secrets from the woman who loves you."

As Mrs. Compton spoke the last words she looked up meaningly at the marquis.

"My dear Mrs. Compton," he replied, "I know nothing as yet of the subject you are mentioning. Ask me something that I know—the methods, for instance, by which we diplomats act—and I will show you that any woman who—who loves me will be repaid for her devotion."

"Well, then, how do you communicate important information to your sovereign without having it known to the world?"

"By a cipher code."

"What is your code?"

"It is too complicated to make you familiar with it except by considerable instruction."

Mrs. Compton pondered; then she asked, "What's your word for peace?"

"Pax," replied the marquis.

"Pax? What a funny word! What's your word for war?"

"Vobiscum."

"Pax and vobiscum! Seems to me I've heard something like that somewhere."

Mrs. Compton had made a step in a plan she had formed and began to consider her next one. Presently she added:

"Promise me one thing."

"Anything."

"Telephone me when you are about to send your cablegram on this subject to your sovereign."

"If there is time."

"Keep me posted as to when you expect the matter to be settled, and I will go at a moment's notice."

"I promise."

A few days later Mrs. Compton was summoned to the Auranian embassy. Calling a carriage, she proceeded thither at a rapid pace. She was ushered into the marquis' private office.

"I am sending an important message to my government," he said. "It is impossible without betraying a sacred trust to show it to you. I am going into the other office for a few moments, and you will he alone here."

He looked meaningly at a paper lying on his desk and went out. Mrs. Compton rushed to the paper and ran her eye over a number of words which to her were meaningless. But one attracted her attention—the word pax. When the marquis returned she gave him a look indicating her profound appreciation of his act. Returning to her hotel, she found her husband waiting for her.

"Well?" he exclaimed eagerly.

"It's peace."

Without a word he rushed to his telephone and, calling up his New York stockbroker, ordered him to buy a million in Auranian bonds immediately.

Mr. and Mrs. Compton's expectation that peace would be announced and the bonds rise in price was disappointed. There was no intervention, no peace. She did not see the Marquis of Carabas again, for he soon after took his vacation. The bonds sank in price, and Mr. Compton's were sold out at a loss.

One day the couple went to a Roman Catholic church to hear some fine music, and during the services the priest pronounced the words "Pax vobiscum." They looked at each other meaningly. Later, meeting a priest, Mrs. Compton asked him what the words meant. "Peace be with you," replied the priest, and Mrs. Compton thanked him and said good morning.

The marquis told the story when he reached home illustrative of the curiosity of Americans and American women especially.

"But how did you introduce the word pax?" asked a listener.

"Oh, the cipher includes certain check words here nd there that mean nothing. I used pax for one of them."

CONTEST CLOSES MAY FIFTH.

Handsome Gold-Handled Umbrella to Go For Just a Name.

A very handsome silk, gold handled lady's parasol was placed on display in one of the windows of the store of Victor E. Zoeller & Co., on Front street, yesterday morning by Mr. D. L. T. Capps, who offers this handsome gift to the lady who before May 5th, suggests the most appropriate name for the handsome confectionery and ice cream parlors that he will open on May 10th or thereabouts in one of the handsome new Bear stores on Princess, next west of the Bell Telephone office. Several suggestions have already been mailed to him at Box 735, but there is room for more and on the 5th of the coming month a committee of five disinterested persons will meet and go over the entire list, awarding the prize. It is a very handsome gift and one of the best that Mr. Capps could buy. It is worth striving for and there is much interest in who will be the winner, and what will be the name of the new and pretty place that Mr. Capps will have.

PARAGRAPHS OF THE PORT.

Four-Masted Schooner in For Repairs. Jones on Tow.

The four-masted schooner William K. Park, 1,151 tons, Capt. Lee, from Fernandina, Fla., April 3d, to Perth Amboy, N. J., appeared off the Cape Fear bar yesterday morning flying distress signals and the tug Blanche, of this port, immediately went out to her, but could not make terms with the captain for a tow inside. Later the wind came around and the vessel sailed in without assistance. The Park has a large cargo of lumber, and her rudder became disarranged while off this coast. She will probably temporarily repair here or take a tow to her destination. The vessel and cargo are intact, with the exception of the twist of her rudder.

The tug Alexander Jones arrived yesterday mornng at Jacksonville, Fla., in charge of Capt. Sanders and Capt. Whitey Beery, and sailed immediately in the afternoon with the schooner Sallie C. Marvel in tow for New York. The Marvel put into Jacksonville in distress and made a contract for tow with the Wilmington tug owners.

—The schooner J. S. Hoskins was cleared yesterday for Fall River, Mass., with a cargo of lumber from the Cape Fear Lumber Company; vessel by C. D. Maffitt.

—Work on the new headquarters of the crew of the fire boat Atlantic at foot of Chestnut street is progressing rapidly, and it will be a neat structure. The Atlantic will be stationed permanently at Chestnut street dock when the headquarters are completed. A fire alarm bell will be installed in the new house.

—The police court yesterday was engaged with several cases of more than passing interest, besides ten delinquent license tax payers, who were required to pay all arearages to the City Clerk and Treasurer. John Hudson, for assault with a brick on Lena Brewington and wilful trespass was given 30 days on each count on the county roads. Bill Rackley, colored, charged with stealing four bags of oats from John S. McEachern Sons, was bound over to Superior Court under bond of $50. Jim Johnson, charged with receiving the stolen goods, knowing them to have been stolen, was found not guilty and discharged.

CONDUCTORS COMPLETE WORK.

General Committee Concludes Its Conference With A. C. L. Officials.

The General Committee of Adjustment of the Order of Railway Conductors, embracing all three divisions of the Atlantic Coast Line between Richmond, Va., and Tampa, Fla., on yesterday concluded sessions of several weeks in this city, during which a number of conferences were held with the officials of the system, looking to an increase of the wage scale and certain changes in the regulations governing the service, both as to passenger and freight men. The committee, at its annual meeting re-elected Capt. Jno. M. Walker general chairman, with Capt. W. M. Lewis, of Montgomery, Ala., vice chairman. Capt. C. E. McCulloch, of Wilmington, was elected secretary, vice Capt. J. G. Kornegay, of Portsmouth, Va., who declined re-election.

It is understood that the officials of the road granted the conductors all over the system an increase of wages that will amount to about nine per cent., and that certain other concessions were made that will be altogether pleasing to the four or five hundred men affected all over the system. The committee besides those named, eleven in all, are as follows: T. H. Harllee, Florence; H. A. Wells, Charleston; W. B. Williams, Savannah; S. J. Brooks, Richmond; J. O. Lewis, Waycross; M. F. Boisclaire, Jacksonville; W. B. Connor, Lakeland, Fla. The visitors have been cordially received by many Wilmington people and the railway officials, and return to their homes today with renewed interest in the service.

PRESBYTERIAN REVIVAL.

Three Churches in City Unite for Great Spiritual Awakening.

At a meeting of all the officers and pastors of the three Presbyterian churches in Wilmington on Thursday afternoon plans were laid for a great revival meeting among the congregations named. Services will be conducted by the pastors and visiting ministers at each of the three churches and there will be a unity of action and concert of effort that is expected to develop a splendid revival. The meeting at Immanuel Presbyterian Church is already in progress but under the plan will be extended through the coming week. Rev. Henry Miller, of Rockbridge Baths, Va., arrived yesterday and is a guest of his nephew, Rev. J. M. Wells, D. D. He will assist with the meeting during the coming week at Immanuel Church and Dr. Wells will assist Dr. McClure at St. Andrew's. The week following there will be a series of meetings at the First Church in which Rev. Mr. Stough with a singer from the work of Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, who has charge of the Geneari Assembly evangelical work with headquarters in New York, will be here to assist. Further announcement of these services will be made later.

WILMINGTON MAN ABOARD.

Mr. Ed. Smith of This City on Vessel Believed to Be Lost.

Mr. Ed. Smith, a son of Police Officer and Mrs. A. D. Smith, of this city, was a member of the crew of the schooner Everett Webster, bound from Wilmington to Philadelphia with cargo of lumber and believed to have been lost with all hands on board. The vessel left Wilmington March 29th, a month ago and since that time has not been spoken or heard from. The owners have made inquiry here as to the vessel, but the Wilmington parties interested are quite as much at a loss to account for the whereabiouts of the schooner as are the owners themselves.

Real Estate Transfers.

From deeds filed for record yesterday the following real estate transfers appear: John M. Williams and wife to George W. —The Tarboro Southerner contains an account of a terrific hail storm which swept over a vast area of Edgecombe county on Wednesday. Some of the hailstones, by actual measurement were two inches long and some were nearly as large as a hen's egg. Numbers of chickens were killed, window lights smashed, houses unroofed and gardens ruined.

—New Bern, April 25: In the United tSates Court in session here a rather peculiar condition of affairs was developed in case of Jonah Huston, tried on the charge of illicit distilling. The defendant is a resident of Onslow county, and has acquired such an undesirable reputation that a petition was given Judge Purnell, signed by forty residents of the county, asking the court to give Huston the limit, as he has made life a burden to the people in his neighborhood. The judge complied with the petitioners' request by giving the defendant two and one-half years in prison and $500 fine. An important case in the hands of the jury is that of the United States vs. The John L. Roper Lumber Company for the obstruction of navigation.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Speculators Disappointed in President Roosevelt's Exposition Speech.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, April 26.—For a good many years past intimations have been current in stock market circles that the address of President Roosevelt at the opening of the Jamestown Exposition would contain matter calculated to revive active operations in securities and quiet all apprehension over the attitude of the administration towards corporations. Immediately upon the publication of the address today all activity died out of the stock market and practical stagnation ensued. The habitual operators in stocks were so disgusted with the apathetic reception of this expected reviving influence that they abandoned operations. The President's speech came in for much discussion nevertheless. His citation of Burke's "If I cannot reform with equity I will not reform at all" as the exact spirit in which this country should move to the reform of abuses of corporate wealth, and his stress on the point of permitting such ample legitimate profits as will encourage individual initiative were dwelt on as offering assurances of immunity for invested wealth from such dangers as have been ostentatiously dreaded by capitalists. But the market was not stirred from its lethargy by this consideration. Crop damage reports continued to play a large part in the speculation, chiefly by repressing activity, but finally weakened the whole market.

The small gain in cash which has resulted from the week's sub-treasury operations has apparently been more than offset by the movement of currency on balance to the interior, the loss in cash by the banks being estimated in the neighborhood of a million dollars. If the process of transfer of loans from the interior to New York banks meanwhile has been going on as for the two previous weeks, a further loan expansion must have resulted.

Atchison and Rock Island made strong returns of March net earnings, but this and the rise in Union Pacific failed to hold the market against the growing strength of the wheat market.

Bonds were steady. Total sales, par value, $1,166,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Total sales of stocks today were 374,000 shares.

BRADSTREET'S TRADE REVIEW.

Cotton and Steel Manufactures Lead the Van of Prosperity.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, April 26.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: The weather conditions this week as for nearly a month past have been a bar to retail trade activity and to seasonable crop development throughout a wide area. In jobbing and wholesale trade lines filling in orders are in smaller volume than expected, but business, as a whole, is good for a between-season's period. There is still a marked scarcity of goods needed for prompt delivery and much cross buying between different jobbers and sections of country.

In manufacturing lines the story is one of filled order books and backward deliveries. In cotton goods and finished iron and steel products, production is still heavily sold ahead and where Fall trade is inquired into a total volume fully equal to, and in some lines, in excess of a year ago.

Collections improved in spots and this tendency is apt to gain with favorable weather. Deliveries of farm products are larger and the wheat movement for the fiscal year is at least in excess of a year ago, but the large reverses in the Northwest are claimed to be from interior elevators rather than from farmers, color being given to this view by the bad roads in that section. There is a disposition, also, to regard the backward crop condition at present as not being a serious one, it being, for instance pointed out that larger areas in corn and oats may eventuate from ascertained losses in wheat. It is also to be pointed out that large supplies of cereals in farmers' hands preclude scarcity even if crop damage results, while enlarged demand would in that event guarantee high prices for the available surplus.

Domestic wools is quiet while stocks are light and sections are becoming poorer. Sales made are for immediate requirements only.

The labor situation is one of great strength. Srtikes are notably few for this period and while railroad retrenchment makes for a larger supply of unskilled labor, the skilled branches are very well employed. The pig iron markets are quiet, although further large sales of Bessemer pig have been made in the Pittsburg district.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN.

Three Men Place Obstructions On Southern Railway Track.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Charlotte, N. C., April 26.—A bold attempt to wreck Southern Railway mail train No. 43 near Harrisburg, 11 miles from Charlotte, was frustrated tonight by the presence of mind of the engineer, who brought the train to a standstill within a few feet of a pile of crossties laid across the track. The conductor saw three men running through the woods when he stopped, and fired at them without effect. Bloodhounds were sent for and a posse joined in the hunt for the train wreckers. At midnight two white men and a negro suspected of the crime were captured several miles from the scene of the attempted hold up. They are being held pending an investigation.

Doing Business Again.

"When my friends thought I was about to take leave of this world, on account of indigestion, nervousness and general debility," writes A. A. Chisholm, Treadwell, N. Y., "and when it looked as if there was no hope left, I was persuaded to try Electric Bitters, and I rejoice to say that they are curing me. I am now doing business again as of old, and am still gaining daily." Best tonic medicine on earth. Guaranteed by R. R. Bellamy, druggist. 50c.

RAILROAD MAN'S SUICIDE.

Former President Willcox, of Delaware & Hudson Shot Himself.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, April 26.—David Willcox, former president of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, committed suicide at sea last Wednesday, while a passenger on the North German Lloyd steamer Barbarossa, accordng to a report made to Health Officer Dody by Capt. Landgren at midnight.

The steamer s at quarantine, where she arrived this evening from Genoa and Naples. Upon the arrival of the liner it was reported that Mr. Willcox had died of heart failure. As he had been known to be in ill health and had gone abroad recently in the hope of recuperating, it was no great surprse to his friends to learn that he had succumbed.

Subsequent investigation, however, according to the captain developed evidence that Mr. Willcox had shot himself. In reporting the facts to Dr. Doty, the captain said that he had only a few moments before been made aware of the real cause of death. Dr. Doty said that he would make an investigation tomorrow.

Mr. Willcox, broken in health, sailed some time ago and recently because he had not secured the benefit physically that he sought, he cabled his resignation to the presidency of the railroad, which was accepted by the directors who chose his successor in Leonor F. Loree, former president of the Baltimore & Ohio and the Rock Island Railroads. At the time he was given out that Mr. Willcox's retirement from the presidency of the Delaware and Hudson was prompted solely by ill health.

Mr. Willcox was feeling poorly, it was stated, when he took passage on the steamer at Naples, April 13. He did not appear to improve and on Wednesday died in his stateroom. The thought of suicide did not then occur to those on shipboard.

Mr. Willcox was born in Flat Buch, L. I., December 12, 1849. He was graduated from Yale in 1872 and was admitted to the bar at Poughkeepsie in 1874. He was made vice-president of the Delaware & Hudson in 1903. He was vice president and general manager of the road and over several of its subsidiary companies from 1903 until his retirement from the presidency.

CHARLOTTE BANK DEFALCATION

Bucket Shop Man Concerned With F. H. Jones Arrested in Alabama.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Charlotte, N. C., April 26.—Percy G. Fonville, who is charged with conspiracy in connection with the embezzlement from the Charlotte National Bank of $68,000 by F. H. Jones, was arrested at Luverne, Ala., and brought to Charlotte today. Fonville conducted a bucket shop in this city and it was through his agency, it is alleged, that Jones got involved in the speculations which led him to rob the bank. Fonville's place of business was closed on the day of Jones' disappearance. Fonville left for parts unknown and secret officers have vigilantly hunted the missing broker ever since. Fonville is alleged to have made a confession implicating Jones and others, but this cannot be verified. He is held without bail for the Federal Court.

YACHT BURNED, CREW ESCAPED.

Accident Occurred Thursday Night on Albemarle Sound.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Norfolk, Va., April 26—The auxiliary gasolene sloop yacht J. Daggett, owned by Capt. James Havity, of Miaim, Fla., was burned in Albemarle Sound, N. C., following the explosion of a gasolene tank last night, when the yacht was two and a half miles off the northeast channel coming for Norfolk. Hohn O'Neil, of Bar Harbor, Me., master of the yacht, and his crew of four men, escaped in a small boat and were rescued by a passing tug and landed at Elizabeth City.

Dr. Nelson Randolph, aged 73, a grandson of former Thomas M. Randolph and a great-grandson of Thomas Jefferson, died at Charlottesville, Va., yesterday. For 17 years he was a member of the board of visitors of the University of Virginia, and for eight years rector at that institution. Burial will take place at Monicello.

Four miners were killed and nine seriously injured yesterday in an explosion on the sixth level of the Morgan slope at the Black Diamond mine of the Pacific Coast Company, on the Columbia and Puget Sound Railway, in the State of Washington. Forty men were waiting to be dropped into the mine when the explosion occurred. Thirteen men had alighted at the sixth level, and the explosion followed as soon as the first men in the working ran into the gas which had gathered in the mine yesterday morning following the cave-in.

THE FIRST MARLBOROUGH.

His Was a Curious Combination of Contradictory Traits.

Herbert Paul in his book on Queen Anne of England paints a queer picture of the great Duke of Marlborough.

He was not truthful. He was not straightforward. He was not honest. In his love of money and his capacity for hoarding it he rivaled those wretched misers who have done no more than contemplate their gains. And yet, such are the strange freaks in which nature indulges, this mean and selfish intriguer was endowed with perfect courage, with an irresistible charm of manner, with a temper which even his wife failed to disturb, with a brain that no sophistry could obscure and with a military genius before which criticism is humbly silent.

He was treacherous even in a treacherous age. Wholly devoid of cruelty and by nature humane, he is said never to have sacrificed an unnecessary life. He used his fellow creatures for his own purposes, and when he had no further use for them he forgot their existence. He made his plans and carried them out with the absolute efficiency of sheer intelligence and the serene implacability of impersonal fate.

THE SULTAN'S SCREEN.

It Is Made of Tanned Human Skin Elaborately Decorated.

There is a story told of a famous and curious screen which occupies a prominent place in the menage of the sultan of Turkey. It is made, so rumor hath it, of human skin, perfectly tanned and elaborately tooled and embossed, and it has been in the royal quarters for more than two centuries. This remarkable screen is not an evidence of cruelty or barbarity on the part of Turkey's ruler 200 years ago, but is a memorial to twelve faithful servants of a former sultan. At one time during the sultan's reign 200 years ago a wing of the palace caught fire, and during the conflagration a much loved member of the sultan's family was rescued by twelve servants. The twelve servants perished, some of them dying later of their wounds and burns, so his majesty had their skins removed by an expert and had them preserved in this touching though remarkable manner. The screen is now looked upon as a part of the ruler's inheritance, and it is said that every sultan cherishes it almost as he would his own royal skin.—New York Herald.

THE AGE OF FISHES.

Both Ear Stones and Scales Carry the Annual Tally.

It has been found by ichthyologists that the age of a fish may be read from its scales. These increase in size by annular growths, two rings being formed each year. The "otoliths" or ear stones, which lie in two sacs on either side of the base of the cranial cavity, afford another means of determination.

Like the scales, the otoliths increase by two rings annually. Each spring—that is, from February to June—a white ring is formed, and each autumn—that is, from July to October—a black one. Thus the number of either white or black rings in an otolith gives the age of the fish in years. In the case of flatfish the latter method has been found more reliable, whereas in the case of the cod the scales give a better result. Although varying much in size and shape in different species, the otoliths show a remarkable constancy in the same species; hence they are of considerable value in the diagnosis of a species.—London Globe.

A Lesson In Philanthropy.

A whole souled resident of Harlem the other evening received the jolt of his career as a parent. While reading his evening paper the doorbell rang, and a parcel from a big department store was announced. The cost was 80 cents, and he gave his little bright eyes, a girl of six, a two dollar bill with which to pay the boy.

Half an hour later the subject recurred to him.

"Here, Mabel," he said. "Where's that money I gave you for the boy?"

"Why, papa," was little bright eyes' reply, "I did the same as you did yesterday with the newsboy. I told him to keep the change."—New York Globe.

Belgium Shopkeepers.

Belgium shopkeepers generally are dealers in miscellaneous goods. One man in a small way, for instance, sells beer, foreign stamps, fruit, cotton, biscuits, penknives, cheese and second-hand hair. Everywhere one finds a mania for glaring lights. One evening when I was out I saw a tremendous light in the distance, and I thought it must surely be an advertisement for a music hall. When I got nearer, I found that the light merely conveyed the intelligence that sardines were sold on the premises.

One Drawback.

"It's a good idea to have something laid by for a rainy day."

"Yep," answered Peter Corntosser; "only that kind o' cash is a good deal like a reg'lar umbrell'. Some other feller is liable to walk off with it jes' as the shower starts."—Washington Star.

Serious Business.

Gladys—I am going to buy an automobile, and I want you to go along and help me select one. Cousin Jack—Not for me, little girl. Why, I even wouldn't pick you out a husband.—Puck.

He Did Not Need It.

Buskin—I can't go on. I haven't any makeup. Manager—What are you playing tonight? Buskin—The fool in—Manager—Go right on. Never mind the makeup.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—After a wedded life of only four months, Mrs. John E. Leath, of Elon College, died April 25th.

—Maxton Scottish Chief: Rev. A. W. Crawford, admitted to this Presbytery last week from Indian Territory, preached twice in the Maxton church last Sunday. His sermons have received high compliments from members of the congregation.

—Charlotte, N. C., April 25: The series of incendiary barn burnings in Steele Creek is having effect in various ways. One farmer brought 35 bales of cotton to town yesterday, and sold them. He had no insurance on them and did not care to run the risk of holding the cotton uninsured.

—Sampson Democrat: The huckleberry pickers may stay in the cotton fields this Summer, for there will not be berries enough to bother with. Many of our farmers declare every year they would prefer not having any huckleberries; this year they have got their rathers.

—Maxton Scottish Chief: A new street has been opened from Saunders and running east of the College grounds. It is named Cottingham. College avenue will soon be opened from South Patterson, opposite Pace street, between Mr. A. H. Currie's and Mrs. E. M. Baldwin's residences.

—Maxton Scottish Chief: One of the heaviest hails we ever witnessed in Maxton fell here Tuesday evening. Thanks to the cold weather for the past few weeks there was not much in the gardens and fields to damage. Some of the hail was nearly two inches long and irregular in shape.

—Kenansville Eastern Carolina News: There are about 40 miles of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad passing through Duplin County. The territory extends from below Wallace on the south to within two miles of Mount Olive on the north. And this 40 miles stretch is known as the great strawberry belt. Duplin is the pioneer truck county in the State.

—Tarboro Southerner: Ex-Sheriff W. T. Knight tells the reporter that he has made a close examination of the fruit and finds that it all has not been killed. Plums will be almost a total failure. The fruit on early blooming pear trees has also been seriously injured, but unless the other fruit is injured from now on there should be, he says, excellent crops of apples, peaches and pears.

—Snow Hill, April 25: Mr. F. J. Fanning, a civil engineer in charge of one of the Norfolk & Southern's surveying corps, has been in this vicinity several days, re-checking the route from here to Farmville. Mr. Fanning said that his information was that the construction force would begin work on the line within the next fifteen days. The Norfolk and Southern Company has, within the past ten days, paid out over $2,500 on the right of way to Snow Hill.

—Kenansville Eastern Carolina News: A hailstorm visited the Kornegay's Bridge section on Friday afternoon. Mr. M. F. Westbrook came through that section Saturday, while on his way to Kenansville, and saw the ground nearly covered with leaves that were beaten from the trees by the hail. Being so early in the season no serious damage was done. There is not any truck in that section of Duplin. We learn window lights were broken out in some of the homes by the hail.

—Sampson Democrat: Mr. H. L. Oates, of Halls, made a shipment of strawberries on the 20th, likely the first from this county or from this section by any one man. When several others are bunching their quarts together, two or three in a place, to make a full crate, Mr. Oates just fills up and ships alone. He is one of our best truckers and farmers. His beans and early corn were killed by the recent cold, and his potatoes badly damaged. Others are generally speaking in the same fix.

—Greensboro, Aprl 25: Greensboro is well pleased and the State is to be congratulated at the election of Dr. J. E. Brooks, of this city, as the first superintendent of the State Sanitarium for the Treatment of Tuberculosis, and Dr. J. R. Gordon, of Guilford, as chairman of the executive committee. At the organization meeting, held at Jackson Springs, on April 23-25, of this week, besides the selection of the superintendent and the executive board, steps were taken lookng for the early selection of a location for the institution and the erection of the necessary buildings.

—The Lumberton Robesonian states that on Monday evening a citizens mass meeting called to nominate a town ticket "bound to no faction or set of men," Mr. E. J. Britt was chosen as the candidate for mayor. Dr. N. A. Thompson, Mr. Ed. B. Freeman, and Mr. I. L. Pope were unanimously named for the two-year commissioners, and Messrs. J. D. McMillan, Jr., C. M. Fuller and R. E. Lee for the one year term. Judge T. A. McNeill, Messrs. J. B. Pittman and F. Gouch were selected for the Board of Audit and Finance. Before the meeting concluded, a number dissatisfied withdrew from the meeting—J. A. McAlister, Mayor Thompson, Sheriff McLeod, W. I. Linkaw, H. M. McAllister, and others.

THE COTTON MARKET.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, April 26.—May notices furnished the chief interest in the cotton market today, and trading was quite active. Fluctuations were somewhat irregular, but the market ruled pretty firm and during the afternoon he prces on most of the months reached a new high level for the bull movement. The close was steady, but unchanged to 7 points higher, with later months showing relative steadiness. Sales were estimated at 250,000 bales. The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to points. Rumors that leading bulls were heavy sellers yesterday, lower English cables and estimates that May notices representing about 75,000 bales were circulating, imparted a very nervous and uncertain tone to the market, and during the early trading May sold off to 9.77, or 11 points net lower against a loss of from 5 to 6 points on the later months. But the May-July difference did not widen to a carrying charge which led to reports that the leading bulls were taking up the cotton as fast as the notices reached them and when this became more certain, the market developed considrable strength on covering of shorts and fresh buying for long account. July and the new crop months led the advance in spite of reports that good rains had fallen in Texas during the past 24 hours. Prices were 2 to 5 points of the best. Temperatures were considered too low in the belt, and private crop reports continue bullish. Private wires from several Southern points reported good spot sales at advancing prices and interior stocks lost quite liberally for the week.

Receipts today, 14,914 bales, against 13,685 last week, and 12,285 last year. For the week, 75,000 bales, against 83,195 last week, and 84,544 last year. Receipts at New Orleans today 2,481 bales, against 632 last year, and at Houston, 2,724 bales, against 2,312 last year.

Spot cotton closed steady; middling uplands, 11.30; middling Gulf, 11.55; sales, 741 bales. Futures closed steady.

JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION FORMALLY INAUGURATED

President Spoke to Immense Throng And Crush So Great Troops Were Called to Protect Women And Children—Guns Boomed From World's War Ships.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Norfolk, Va., April 26.—President Roosevelt, the diplomatic, naval and military representatives of thirty-seven of the nations of the world, and the governors of a score of States participated today in the opening exercises of the Jamestown Tercentennial Exposition. While the Exposition, which is to remain open until November 30 next, is still far from complete, the unfinished condition of buildings and grounds was not allowed to interfere in any way with today's celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the first English settlement in America. From the firing of a sunrise salute of three hundred guns by the United States army, through the picturesque beauty of the review of the inernational fleet of war vessels anchored in Hampton Roads, through the ceremonies of dedication at which the President spoke and down to a late hour tonight when the Chief Executive repaired aboard the naval yacht Sylph to spend the night in the lower bay, the day was crowded with notable incidents.

Not the least impressive of the day's events was the quick action of the President in assuming command of the situation in front of the crowded grand stand from which he spoke when a panic seized the surging throng of spectators. Pressed against the guard ropes by thousands of eager persons in the rear of the gathering who were forcing their way forward, the safety of life and limb of those who had the more favored positions were endangered. President Roosevelt had just been introduced by Harry St. George Tucker, the head of the Jamestown Exposition Company, when the disorder and unrest in the crowd reached its height and the civil guards in front of the grand stand seemed about to be swept from their posts. With the agility of a school boy, the President jumped upon the table which had been placed in the speaker's balcony and waving his arms cried out to the men of Virginia to live up to their traditions of gallantry and cease the pushing and crowding which was threatening the lives of women and children n the assemblage, a throng which all but blocked the big grass-covered plaza known as Lee's Parade.

President's Address.

The crowd heeded the President's warning at first, but when he had settled down into his speech and the words were fairly blown from his mouth by the southeasterly gale which was sweeping the great parade, the immense audience became uneasy again and those on the outskirts began to press forward once more in their anxiety to catch the words which were being born away in the blustering Summer wind. The President was interrupted and mounted officers and men of the United cavalry were called to take charge. They rode up and down along the front of the crowd and gradually opened it up and relieved the pressure, which at one time threatened to hurl an avalanche of humanity against the President's stand, and the boxes occupied by the distinguished members of the diplomatic corps. A detachment of artillerymen on foot also was called into service, and the thousands who came to see and hear the President at last settled down into a peaceful assemblage.

Apparently oblivious to the unusual position he occupied on the top of a somewhat shaky table, not more than two feet wide and twice that measurement in length, President Roosevelt made his entire speech from this impromptu and easy platform. Nor did the slenderness of his base interfere in the slightest degree with the characteristic vigor of his delivery. The President part of the time faced the assembled multitude in front of the flag-draped stand and then like a flash he would wheel upon the four or five thousand distinguished visitors and invited guests who occupied the towering tiers of seats at his back. Some of his remarks—noticeably when he touched upon the subject of the recent peace congress in New York—were addressed to the representativs of the many nations of the world; others were emphasized to the soldiers and sallors, who took such a conspicuous part in the day's programme, and still other thoughts to which he gave utterance, were shouted by the President to the general public. Each section of his auditors was ready to respond to his words with outbursts of applause and cheering. Especially when reference was made to the gallantry of the men who fought in the Civil war—beneath the banners of the North or the cross-barred flag of the Confederacy—was the cheering and the applause unstinted.

Grand Naval Review.

A fairer day has never been seen than that which attended the opening of probably the most notable exposition ever held in the South. The heat at times during the afternoon was somewhat intense, but it was always tempered by a strong breeze, laden with the life giving qualities of salt sea air. The military encamped about the Exposition grounds began the day's ceremonies with the firing of the three century salute. Soon thereafter from across the waters of Hampton Roads, came the boom of ship cannon signalling the beginning of the notable review by the President of the most formidable fleet of international battleships and cruisers the world has witnessed in many years. On board the tidy little cruiser yacht Mayflower, the President with a few especially invited guests, was greeted first by a roll of twenty-one guns from each of the vessels, foreign and American. Then, as he steamed along the lane of the visiting men-of-war he was saluted individually and in turn by every battleship and cruiser at anchor in the roads. The marine picture viewed from shore by thousands, and from the decks of excursion and pleasure craft by almost as many more, was at once imposing and impressive.

When his yacht had anchored in the very midst of the naval vessels, the President received on board, the flag and commanding officers of the foreign fleet, and the flag officers of the home squadrons. Among the foreigners who called were Admiral Sir George Neville, commanding the British cruisers squadron; Commodore Kalau von Hofe, commanding the German cruisers; Commodore Hermann von Plescott, commanding the Austrians, and the commanding officers of the Argentine ship Sarmeinto. To each of the visitors the President had a cordial word of greeting, expressing his pleasure in meeting them on home waters. The hospitality of the nation was extended by the President, who in turn, received from his brilliantly uniformed visitors many expressions of the esteem in which he personally and the American people as a whole are held by the sovereigns whose ambassadors it was their pleasure to be. The foreign officers vied with one another in the cordiality of of their expressions, the German commodore and the English admiral specially voicing sentiments of the warmest admiration for the President.

The President landed at the Exposition grounds shortly after 11 A. M. The immense government piers undergoing construction are still many weeks from completion, and it was with some difficulty that a way was cleared for even the lght launches in which the President and the naval officers of the various squadrons made the journey to shore. Booming cannon again greeted the President as he stepped upon the temporary structure which is eventually to be a magnificent water gate known as Discovery Landing.

President Greeted.

President Tucker, of the Exposition Company, personally welcomed Mr. Roosevelt and cheering crowds along the water front acclaimed a chorus to the simple words of Mr. Tucker, who said:

"Mr. President, Old Virginia salutes you, sir."

The President returned the salutation by expressing his pleasure at being present and, entering a carriage with Mrs. Roosevelt was driven to the grand stand on the parade between two lines of soldiers from the Twenty-third United States infantry. The infantrymen, in open file, covered the entire course of the President's drive from the shore front to the place of the inaugural ceremonies. The big grand stand was filled to overflowing by the time the President reached the entre box assigned to him and to the members of his family. Arranged in the front rows of boxes were the Ambassodors and Ministers of the foreign nations, attended by their military and naval attaches in full dress uniforms. Gold lace glittered everywhere and from the sombre blue of the American naval officers to the dazzling red of some of the German attaches, the colors flashed in kaleidiscopic riot. Large delegations from the foreign and Americon ships were banked in a solid square just back of the President, while to right and left were the governors of many States, surrounded by their staffs. United States Senators and Representatives, attired in the formality of democratic frock coats, were also there to lend further official dignity to the occasion. Intermingled with the officers and the various dignitaries of State and Nations were the ladies of the parties, their gowns of varying hues adding immeasurably to the beauty of the picture in the crowded stand.

Gold Button Pressed.

The ceremonies of dedication were brief, the features being the addresses of President Tucker, of the exposition, and President Roosevelt. The latter at the conclusion of his address, pressed the gold button which formally marked the opening of the commemorative enterprise. Then followed an informal luncheon to the President and forty other guests in the Auditorium or the Administration building. The repast ended, the President repaired again to the grand stand from which he reviewed a parade of United States soldiers and sailors. Seamen from the visiting fleets were expected to take part in the parade, but the difficulties of landing on the uncompleted grounds prevented. The parade was quickly over and a reception by the President in the Auditorium brought the day's events at the fair grounds to a close. Admission to the reception was by card, but after the President had shaken hands with the invited guests, the doors were thrown open for a time to the general public. The President stood in line for more than an hour. This feature of the programme scheduled for 5 o'clock was held at a much earlier hour and those who were late in reaching the Administration building were disappointed to find the President gone. He returned to the Mayflower shortly after 4 o'clock and after dressing for dinner was transferred to the smaller boat Sylph and brought to Norfolk where he and Mrs. Roosevelt were guests of honor at a dinner given by President Tucker at the home of Barton Myers, one of the officials of the exposition. Mr. Tucker's home is quarantined on account of measles.

The Sylph, docked at the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad pier at 7:45 o'clock tonight. Major General Fred D. Grant, with a squad of cavalry met the boat and furnished outriders for the drive of about a dozen blocks to the Myers home and the President was given an ovation along the entire route, and other dinner guests included. Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, Major General Grant, the members of the President's Cabinet, who attended the inaugural ceremonies, Governor Swanson, of Virginia, and several of the exposition officials. Most of the prominent men present were accompanied by their wives or other ladies.

At 10 o'clock tonight the President and Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the Sylph and the little yacht slipped down the bay ready to proceed early tomorrow to the old Jamestown settlement up the James river. The President's trip tomorrow is a strictly private affair and it was said he might not land at any point.

Assistant Secretary of State Bacon will be his guest. The Sylph will join the Mayflower tomorrow night and both vessels will proceed at once to Washington.

On the trip up the James river tomorrow the Sylph will stop at Westover, the estate of the Byrds, at Brandon, the estate of the Harrisons, and at Shirley, the estate of the Carters. These three families are among the oldest in Virginia and is a very fine type. The party was informally arranged with the occupants of these fine old mansions.

Incidents of Day.

The incidents threatening a serious panic at the grand stand were the only untoward feature of the day, although the exposition management was undeniably embarrassed in not being able to present a more completed display to the foreign representatives who lent a world of dignity to the inaugural.

President Tucker's address, a historical narrative, was begun before the crowd had fully gathered and there was much confusion from the start. Several times the exposition president was interrupted by the turmoil incident to the efforts of the guards to keep the throng in check. President Roosevelt had been noting the conditions which seemed constantly to grow worse, with no little anxiety for the many women and children who were being almost unmercifully crushed against the ropes. As soon as Mr. Tucker had finished, the impulse came to the President to jump upon the table where he could better take in the situation. He was stopped in his purpose for a time by the tumultuous cheering which greeted him. When the crowd was quiet, the President appealed to the men of their native State, noted for the gallantry of their sons, to protect the women and children from being trampled upon. He spoke of the esteem in which the American man holds all women and children and paid a special tribute to the Virginians in this respect. He expressed the hope that he would be able to say as much in behalf of those who stood before him at the conclusion of his address.

The President next caused some amusement by saying he would appreciate it very much if he were allowd to make a speech "as much of a monologue as possible." He turned to where the diplomatic corps was sitting and observed that many of those in the front rows had bared their heads as he began to speak. The sun was pouring down with the intensity of mid-July and the President, protected by an awning, was quick to appreciate the discomfort to the Nation's guests.

"You would please me very much," he called out, "if you would wear your hats. The weather is very warm and you are quite exposed."

The French Ambassador, Mr. Jusserand, was apparently loath to comply with the request. The President turned to him and shaking a warning finger, said: "Mr. Jusserand, put on your hat right away. I won't have you suffer a sun stroke."

The Ambassador complied and all of the members of the corps were much amused. They applauded the President in rare good humor.

It was soon after this that the mounted officers were called in to force back the crowd. After they had assumed command there was no further disturbance of any sort.

Speech Pleased.

The President's address apparently pleased his hearers to the full. When he turned to the audience in the grand stand and speaking of the recent peace conference in New York, proclaimed again that he regarded righteousness and peace as virtues that must ever go hand-in-hand, the cheering was prolounged. The President declared that if the time should ever come when the world must choose between righteousness and peace, shame would be upon those who chose the latter at the cost of the former. Hearty laughter greeted the President's remark that the Bible contained good, sound reading, that would not be out of place "in a peace conference."

"And I want to say right here," went on the President enthusiastically, "that battleships are mighty good peacemakers."

The exposition grounds and several of the big buildings were illuminated tonight. The electrical display when completed is expected to equal that of any recent exposition.

Magnificent Naval Spectacle.

Hampton Roads, the scene today of one of the most notable naval reviews of the world, blazed brilliantly tonight with the lights of half a hundred mighty vessels of war. The illumination of the combined fleets of Great Britain, Germany, Austria, the Argentine Republic and the United States, crowned with fitting splendor the magnificent day picture which had been presented when President Roosevelt aboard the naval yacht Mayflower, sailed around the anchored squadrons and received the welcome of their thunderous guns fired in chief magistrial salute. The daylight decorations of vari-colored signal flags stretched in fluttering strings from stem to stern, gave way with the setting sun to the glow of thousands of electric bulbs and the far-reaching flash of a hundred playing searchlights. The vessels of the American fleet were completely outlined in incandescent bulbs. Military masts and turrets, water line and freeboard were strung with the fairy-like filament lanterns and in bold letters across the bridge the name of the vessel burned the identity of the big fighter into the night. A brilliant moon shone over the waters and added vastly to the beauty of the scene. The vessels of the visiting fleets were also gorgeously arrayed in light effects, some of the designs being decidedly unique and interesting. Their searchlight drills were watched with wonderment by those on shore and with unstinted admiration by the American officers and sailors.
